Bail Gives Notice Of Resignation To Regents Board

In a move which caught the entire Board of Regents, faculty, staff and student body off guard, President Milo Bail submitted his resignation yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Regents.

He gave no specific reasons for the move. The task of selecting a new president was given to the faculty and regents committees.

Faculty committee head Dr. George Harris summed up his somewhat stunned feelings when he said, "this is the saddest day of my life, selecting a new man is going to be a tough job."

However, Dr. Bail left the committee 18 months in which to perform the task. His resignation becomes effective September 1, 1965, which means his successor will be manning the post when that year's bumper crop of freshmen flood the campus.

Under Dr. Bail's hand the campus has exploded from a one building school to the multi-structure college of today. A list of the construction projects initiated and executed during his administration includes: the Fieldhouse and Stadium, Music Building Annex, Eugene C. Eppley Library and Conference Center, the Applied Arts Building and Student Center.

The President was also responsible for the establishment of two new colleges, Business Administration and Education.

Working over the past 16 years under his formula for success, "accept only the best" Doctor Bail has awarded over 9,000 diplomas. He lists one of the greatest achievements as making "West Dodge High" a respectable university.

Heading the Regents Committee in the search for a successor is Dr. Herbert Davis. With him on the project are Samuel Greenberg, C. F. Moulton and Varro Rhodes and Robert Spire.

The Faculty Committee under the leadership of Dr. George Harris, consists of Dr. Paul Kennedy, Anson Marston and Phil Vogt. Screening for prospects begins immediately.

Waakiya Registers 244

"The members of Waakiya were very pleased with the number of people who turned out to register for voting," said Gretel Schmad, chairman of the program.

The registration, which was sponsored by Waakiya, took place last week in the Student Center. There were 244 valid registrations made.

Vogt's Class To Begin Study Of Skid Row Area

Garbins Group Plan On Case Studies

A number of University of Omaha sociology students have begun research on a project called "Skid Row", a survey study of people existing at the lower level of urban society in Omaha.

The purpose of this study is to locate the areas in which these people live, identify their patterns of behavior and living, and make an evaluation of the cost to the community.

Each year students who are enrolled in a course called "The Community", instructed by Dr. Phillip Vogt, work on a project concerned with some aspect of community life. This course is a companion to the theoretical course, "Urban Society".

This semester, Mr. Albeno Garbin and nine seminar students will work cooperatively with Dr. Vogt on this study. However, the two groups will work on different aspects of research. Dr. Vogt's class of 20 is going to conduct the first stages of the project by doing the survey. Sources they will use are the Health department, Welfare department, police, Open-Door Mission, and the Salvation Army.

Dr. Garbin and the graduate students will then use this material and conduct interviews for individual case histories in an attempt to determine underlying causes for the existence of these areas.

The location in which the students will be working is between Leavenworth and Cumming streets and east of 15th street. They will also include a four block area north of the city auditorium.

The majority of people who frequent these parts of the city are elderly men who are unemployed and often homeless.

The works of William Shakespeare will be discussed and displayed at the University of Omaha during the annual American Heritage Series devoted to the Quadacentennial of the birth of Shakespeare.

The Heritage presentation will consist of a trilogy of events. First will be Shakespeare's comedy "As You Like It" to be presented March 5-7. This production will be followed by lectures from two authorities on Shakespeare, Sir Tyrone Guthrie and Professor A. L. Rowse.

The past is an important element in the OU production of "As You Like It". Efforts have been made to stage and perform the play in the same manner as the old Globe Theatre productions.

The auditorium stage has been furnished with a special extension to give the effect of the early Elizabethan theatre. Among the special effects are costumes and music. Authentic Elizabethan dress was taken into consideration when planning the play. Costumes are being shipped to OU from Denver, Colo.

Four musicians will provide the music to accompany the action, on recorders, (wind instruments), in keeping with the traditional production.

"We wanted this play to be as authentic as possible," said Dr. E. L. Clark, director. "There is much excitement in this play —even a real wrestling scene," he continued. The play will be presented in the University auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 each.

Dean Robert Harper, who helped arrange the program, said, "We hope to make Shakespeare an exciting experience not just a character who is inflicted upon the high school student." He added that OU is featuring "one of the most impressive Shakespeare commemorative programs on any U. S. campus. Sir Guthrie and Professor Rowse are internationally recognized figures and we are privileged to have them as part of our program," he concluded.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, a director of the Old Vic Theatre and its governor since 1956, is probably the "best-known director in the English-speaking world" For the Heritage series, he will talk on "Shakespeare and the Theatre", March 9 at 8:30 p.m. in the University auditorium.

A British scholar, historian and writer, Professor A. L. Rowse will speak on "The Problem of Shakespeare's Sonnets Solved". He is also the Distinguished Visiting Professor this year. Professor Rowse's biography of Shakespeare was the book-of-the-month selection for January, 1964. His lecture will be March 18 at 8:30 at OU.

Both of the latter programs are free.

Welder Beats Meter Beater

A lot of students on this campus, faced with the perennial lack of nickels, become more ingenious every day. However, the latest meter-beater turnabout is being halted with a welding torch.

The situation is this. The honest student parks his car and dutifully deposits alms in the perpetual slot. Moments later, enter the culprit who parks opposite the honest mans auto. Looking furtively about, the culprit grasps the four-headed meter and twists . . . lo and behold, he is the man with time on the meter, while the honest student returns within what he thought was his time, only to find his auto decorated with a ticket.

A simple solution to a lack of nickels. Perhaps. But the complaints began haunting officials and the meter mentors were called out. The meter swiveler had to be stopped . . . he was becoming a menace.

Welding torch in hand, maintenance men trooped to the rescue. They welded down the meter heads. No more swivel, no more theft, no more complaints. More parking tickets.

Campus Republicans To Meet Wednesday

All University of Omaha students who may be interested in working with the campus Young Republicans during the upcoming campaign are invited to a meeting to be held this coming Wednesday. The meeting, being held to discuss what the group will do in the campaign, is scheduled for 11 a.m., alcove A of the SC dining room.

Plans for a joint rally with Duchesne, Creighton and St. Mary's Young Republicans is also to be discussed.

Blackwell Named Committee Head Beautification Drive Plan Four Projects

John V. Blackwell, chairman of the OU Art Department, Monday was named chairman of the sub-committee on Civic Art in association with the Mayor's Committee on City Beautification.

Blackwell said his sub-committee would be concerned with four major projects.

The projects include a Turner Boulevard fountain drive, recommend plans for "creative lighting" of several Omaha buildings, renovation of many of the city's fountains and recommendations on design and coordination of Interstate Highway bridges.

All plans originated in Blackwell's sub-committee will be passed on to the Mayor's Committee.

Blackwell said his sub-committee is one of three under the present Mayor's Committee for City Beautification. The other two will be concerned with landscaping and house-keeping.

EDITORIAL VOICE

The last issue of the GATEWAY suffered through the usual number of criticisms last week, most of which were directed at factual mistakes in the paper.

This occurred in spite of the greater-than-usual amount of space devoted to pictures. And, as usual, most of the complaints came from members of the faculty; that is, the same faculty members who complained the week before.

In most instances, the complaints were valid and pointed out a mistake which could not have been avoided. However, in every case, the complainer was of the opinion that the reporter who covered or rewrote the story was at fault. In very few of the cases was this true.

The bulk of errors of that type came from a very simple but extremely aggravating lack of communication between the reporter and his news source. Too often the breakdown in the exchange of information resulted because a faculty member was "too busy" to speak to the journalism student assigned to that area.

This is understandable to an extent, in view of the work load most teachers carry, but the ranks of those who are too busy seems to remain suspiciously even and those who fall into that category are the same ones every week. The reporter is then left with a last-minute decision as to whether to print what information he has or to scrap the story entirely. Whatever he decides, he's wrong. Shortly after Friday's 8:30 morning class when everyone has had a chance to read the GATEWAY, the complaints begin.

"Why didn't you check with me before you ran that story?" the unhappy prof pouts over the phone. More than likely, the person on the receiving end of these sometimes infantile calls are just persons who happened to be handy and have no way of knowing how or why such an article was printed. "Too busy" often takes the bewildered listeners silence as an acceptance of guilt.

It seems hard to believe that OU's president and deans, as busy as they are, can find time to not only talk to the budding journalists but to phone the GATEWAY when they hear of something we might use; yet, the underlings can't find time to answer a few relatively easy questions.

But those persons rank second in nuisance value to their subordinates. It seems that the lower the person is on the faculty totem, the more he delights in trying to exercise editorial policy over an eager but easily-awed youngster.

The most damning reply a member of the I've-got-power group can give is: "I don't want to release that story now, I don't think we should print anything on it just now."

A few corrections should be mentioned here. First, "we" are not printing the story. The GATEWAY is. Second, "we" has no power to release the story. The fact that a reporter is able to ask specific questions on a possible story means, for all practical purposes, the story has been released and the newspaper, be it the GATEWAY or the New York Times, is looking for confirmation and not permission to print the story.

When the GATEWAY staff sifts through its copy after one of these encounters with a mighty wielder of journalistic judgment, a story will stick out that would make the average libel suit sound like a catechism lesson.

The young author, being at the stage of the game he is, went off the deep end and, glowing hotly with the principles and ideals of freedom of the press as taught in a classroom, wrote what he felt.

Usually the story is dropped because it's too late to straighten it out.

But a new policy may become necessary if the trend continues. The GATEWAY will begin printing these stories using the information available to them and simply tag on the last paragraph this explanation: Mr. such-so-much refused to release any information because he felt the story shouldn't be printed.

It would be interesting to hear Mr. such-so-much explain to his colleagues why he felt an article on a new machine or an upcoming tea was so important and/or degrading that it should have been suppressed. And that's generally all those troublesome stories amount to. The big stories are easy to cover because we go to big people to get our information.

Trickett To Lead European Forum Tour Discussion Nine European Lands Will Be Explored

How to earn six hours of college credits while traveling in Europe, will be one of the topics discussed by a "European Study Forum." The Forum, being held at the University of Omaha, Sunday, March 1 will take place in the Eppley Conference Center from 2 to 5 p.m.

The forums purpose is to present information on the University's 1964 European Study Tour and the nine European countries to be visited this year.

Dr. A. Stanley Trickett, head of the OU history department, will act as moderator for the forum which is free to the public.

Special speakers include: Guy Abecassis, Paris, France; Hafis Bertschinger, Beirut, Lebanon, and Richard Kalxdorff, Minneapolis, Minn.

A graduate of the Sorbonne, Mr. Abecassis is a writer, playwright and tour director. His book, "Tours and Detours," has been published in nine countries. He has also conducted two Joslyn Art Museum tours in Europe.

Bertschinger, artist and specialist in ancient history, participated in the 1963 Joslyn Art Museum tour.

Kalxdorff was born in East Germany, but escaped to West Germany and later moved to the United States. He is presently engaged as regional sales manager for Lufthansa Airlines.

Other features of the forum will be a special film on Europe and booths of brochures and information on the various countries to be visited in the study tour.

The European study tour, June 7 to July 14, offers persons the chance to earn college credits in history while touring the countries of Portugal, Spain, France, Italy, Austria, Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium and England. Tour director for the "classroom on wheels" is Dr. Trickett.

Flying Bishop To Get Mardi Gras Take-In

The "flying" bishop of We-wak, New Guinea, Leo Arkfeld S.V.P., will receive the proceeds of the Newman Club Mardi Gras dance.

Bishop Arkfeld got the name because of his frequent missionary flights in his private plane.

Club members will attend 9:30 a.m. Mass at St. Margaret Mary's church Sunday. All members are asked to meet in the Crying Room after the service before adjourning to a local restaurant for breakfast.

Preparations for a Paschal Dinner are now underway. This event is slated for Palm Sunday. All OU Catholic students are invited to this affair; reservations must be turned in by March 8.

The Paschal Dinner is a model of traditional Passover dinner which shows the foundation of the Eucharist (communion). Bette Zoorwill and Virginia Werner are co-chairmen of the event.

The 1931-32 basketball season was the only undefeated year in OU basketball history. Sed Hartman coached the Indians to a 20-0 record.

OU Debate Team Hit By Sarcasm

The Omaha University inter-collegiate debate team found strong competition at the Invitational Speech Tournament in Tuscon, Ariz, Febr. 20-22.

OU won four out of 12 rounds, losing to teams such as the University of Arizona, the Air Force Academy and the University of New Mexico. OU gave Long Beach State college and San Diego State college their only losses.

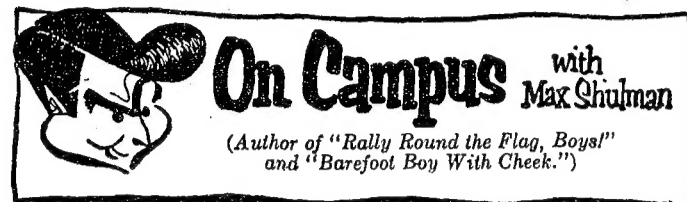

"We found their method of debating quite different from ours. They use more evidence and sarcasm than we do," said Dwayne Aschenbrenner, OU debate coach.

5 Cadets Soon To Be Chosen

This week Lt. Colonel Emilio P. Ratti, professor of air science, announced his selection of five Cadets as Distinguished Military Students.

These cadets, Cdt. Col. Robert E. Burdge, Cdt. Lt. Col. Fred L. Abbott, Cdt. Maj. Paul D. Downie, Cdt. Maj. James D. Houdek and Cdt. Maj. Art Z. Simon were recognized for their outstanding contributions to the AFROTC program. They were all rated high in their summer training program last year.

From these five, at least two will be announced as Distinguished Military Graduates just prior to graduation ceremonies.

EVOL SPELLED BACKWARDS IS LOVE

They met. His heart leapt. "I love you!" he cried.

"Me too, hey!" she cried.

"Tell me," he cried, "are you a girl of expensive tastes?"

"No, hey," she cried. "I am a girl of simple tastes."

"Good," he cried, "for my cruel father sends me an allowance barely large enough to support life."

"Money does not matter to me," she cried. "My tastes are simple; my wants are few. Just take me riding in a long, new, yellow convertible and I am content."

"Goodbye," he cried, and ran away as fast as his little stumpy legs would carry him, for he had no yellow convertible, nor the money to buy one, nor the means to get the money—short of picking up his stingy father by the ankles and shaking him till his wallet fell out.

"I am clean and fresh and relaxing," she admitted

He knew he must forget this girl, but lying on his pallet at the dormitory, whimpering and moaning, he knew he could not.

At last an idea came to him: though he did not have the money to buy a convertible, perhaps he had enough to rent one!

Hope reborn, he rushed on his little stumpy legs (curious to tell, he was six feet tall, but all his life he suffered from little stumpy legs) he rushed, I say, to an automobile rental company and rented a yellow convertible for $10 down plus ten cents a mile. Then, with many a laugh and cheer, he drove away to pick up the girl.

"Oh, bully!" she cried when she saw the car. "This suits my simple tastes to a 'T.' Come, let us speed over rolling highroads and through bosky dells."

Away they drove. All that day and night they drove and finally, tired but happy, they parked high on a wind-swept hill.

"Marlboro?" he said.

"Yum, yum," she said.

They lit their Marlboros. They puffed with deep contentment. "You know," he said, "you are like a Marlboro—clean and fresh and relaxing."

"Yes, I am clean and fresh and relaxing," she admitted. "But, all the same, there is a big difference between Marlboros and me, because I do not have an efficacious white Selectrate filter."

They laughed. They kissed. He screamed.

"What is it, hey?" she asked, her attention aroused.

"Look at the speedometer," he said. "We have driven 200 miles, and this car costs ten cents a mile, and I have only $20 left."

"But that is exactly enough," she said.

"Yes," he said, "but we still have to drive home."

"Oh," she said. They fell into a profound gloom. He started the motor and backed out of the parking place.

"Hey, look!" she cried. "The speedometer doesn't move when you are backing up."

He looked. It was true. "Eureka!" he cried. "That solves my problem. I will drive home in reverse. Then no more miles will register on the speedometer and I will have enough money to pay!"

"I think that is a smashing idea," she said, and she was right. Because today our hero is in the county jail where food, clothing, and lodging are provided free of charge, and his allowance is piling up so fast that in two or three years he will have enough money to take his girl riding again. ©1964 Max Shulman

Corinthians Names Its Scholar-Of-The-Month

Leslie Ann Roe Wins With 4.0 Average

The Corinthians, an honor society on campus, has chosen its first Scholar-of-the-Month. She is Leslie Ann Roe, a sophomore majoring in Home Economics and enrolled in the College of Applied Arts.

Leslie, a transfer from Hastings College, is attending Omaha University on a Regents Scholarship. She was chosen for this honor because of her perfect grade point of 4.0.

Corinthians will select a scholar every month from a different college in order to recognize high scholarship in underclassmen.

Corinthians also wishes to make people more aware of the honorary and to encourage underclassmen to study hard in order to become eligible for membership.

Membership in Corinthians requires a grade point average of 3.5 and a total of at least 58 credit hours.

Lambda Chi Gives Zagor Mardi Gras Queen Title

Bracelets Given To Other Candidates

Zagor rules Mardi Gras

The Mardi Gras dance was especially eventful for Shari Zagor who was chosen to reign as queen.

Shari was elected by an all-Greek vote Saturday night at the annual dance sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, Waakiya and Angel Flight. Shari is also active in Corinthians, education honorary, Kappa Delta Pi and represents the junior class on the Student Council.

Other candidates were: Ruth Helligso, Sigma Kappa; Judy McCoy, Zeta Tau Alpha and Linda Riddle, Chi Omega. They received bracelets as gifts from the fraternity.

The event was held at the Carter Lake Club and all couples were asked to wear costumes. Prizes were awarded to the couples wearing the most original costumes.

The Vogues Combo provided the music for dancing.

Sorority Hosts NU Sisters

Sigma Kappa will play host to members of the sorority's chapter from the University of Nebraska at an annual State Day. The event will be held Sunday at the Lamplighter Motor Inn.

Registration is scheduled for 11 a.m., followed by a general meeting. Dr. Ralph M. Wardle, chairman of the English department, will be guest speaker at the banquet.

Arrangements are being made by the sorority's alumnae chapter.

Sigma Kappa gained a new pledge in open bidding last week. Mary Kay Menze was pledged in a ceremony Feb. 19.

Home-Ec Club Picks Ten

Best-Dressed Title Goes To Johnson

The Home-Economics Club this week selected Shirley Johnson as OU's Best Dressed Co-Ed. Shirley, a 21-year-old home-economics major, is president of Waakiya and a member of Chi Omega Sorority.

Included in the 10 Best Dressed Co-Eds are: Susie Dean, Judy Eichorn, Liz Encell, Kathy Hybl, Nanci Morris, Leslie Riggs, Jeanne Royer, Georgia Ruby and Karen Stacke.

Elected to the Hall of Fame are: Gail Browning, Kathy Bowman, Jackie Palmer, Earlene Timm and Sue Weidenhammer. These girls have twice been named one of the 10 Best Dressed Co-Eds.

Those receiving Honorable Mention are: Sarah Edwards, Phyllis Faasse, Dorothy Geihls, Joan Kimball and Ruth Meyers.

"The Best Dressed Co-Eds were chosen on the basis of dressing well every day, not just on special occasions, always being well-groomed and always being appropriately dressed for the occasion," Miss Margaret Killian, head of the home-ec dept. said.

The girls were nominated by club members, by faculty members and by campus groups. From these, a special home-ec committee selected the semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists were entertained at a tea Tuesday by members of the Home-Economics Club and the winners were announced at that time.

"Club members are taught in home-ec classes the do's and don'ts of good grooming," said Miss Killian. "This is a good experience for them to apply their knowledge in choosing OUs best-dressed."

The Best Dressed Contest is sponsored nationally by "Glamour" Magazine. Miss Johnson's picture will be sent to the national contest to be judged by a panel of "Glamour" editors. From these pictures, the semi-finalists will be chosen.

Should she be chosen one of the 10 best dressed co-eds in the nation, Miss Johnson will be flown to New York City for a visit as a guest of the magazine and pictures of her will be featured in the August issue of "Glamour."

THANKS COACH!

Win or lose, depending on last night's CIC title match, the GATEWAY sports department wishes to extend our congratulations to Basketball coach Jim Borsheim and his Indian squad.

In just three short years, Borsheim has come up with OU's best season since Virgil Yelkin's 1954-55 campaign . . . The Indians will finish in the top division for the first time since they joined the CIC conference in 1958.

With some of the best freshmen prospects in recent years, the future looks bright for OU's team which once upon a time were considered to be "soft touches" . . .

The "Rocket" In New York

Roger Sayers displays the medal he won last Saturday at the National A.A.U. Indoor Track Meet. The rocket came in fourth in the Madison Square Garden event. Competing against Bob Hayes of Florida A & M, Sayers was timed in 6.1 seconds compared to Hayes record breaking 5.9 in the 60-yd. dash.

Indian Thinclads In Final Triangular Meet Tonight

Graceland and Simpson College will provide the opposition tonight as the O.U. track team seeks their third straight triangular victory of the year.

With Rocket Roger Sayers back in the Omaha stable again, Terry Williams can relax a little from the pressure of last week when he was OU's lone hope in the sprints.

The fieldhouse runoff will start with the broad jump and other field events at 7:00. Prelims in the 60 are scheduled for 7:45.

Sayers Fourth At A.A.U. Meet
Roger Sayers took fourth place in the 60 yard dash at the National AAU Indoor Championships at New York's Madison Square Garden over the weekend.

The Rocket came in behind Florida A & M's Bob Hayes, who set a world record of 0:5.9 seconds in the finals. Charley Green, a University of Nebraska freshman from Seattle, Washington, was second and Mel Pender of the Army was third. Sam Perry of Fordham finished fifth behind Sayers.

Roger won both his preliminary heats in the afternoon to gain the semifinals. He beat Bob Brown of the Philadelphia Pioneer A.C. with a 6.2 clocking in the first heat. Sayers whipped Tim Johnson of Morgan State with a 6.3 to gain the evening trials.

Tough Sledding

The semifinal heat was nearly disastrous for the OU ace.

Roger got off to a bad start and managed a strong finish to take a third in his heat behind Pender and Perry. Since he had the fastest third place in the two heats, Sayers advanced to the finals along with Hayes, Green and the other two.

The Rocket just did not have it in the finals fifteen minutes later. Hayes and Green both had fantastic starts off the blocks and again Sayers had to come on strong to catch up. He was a close fourth with a 6.1 clocking which equaled the previous meet record.

The Interfraternity Volleyball tourney will get under way Monday night, March 2 at 6:30 in the Fieldhouse. Bert Kurth, Intramural Director said the competition will be double elimination. A second night of play will be Thursday March 5.

Tournament Final

The Zeke Moe Joes and Fugitives were due to square off last night prior to the big OU varsity-Emporia State CIC title match. With Intramural league and tourney play in basketball now completed, a total of 119 games were played during the 1963-64 season.

In semi-final tournament basketball games, the Fugitives gained a berth in championship play by defeating the Flyers 51-48. Gary Gilmore scored 26 points in a losing cause for the Flyers and T. Emery tallied 17 for the winners. The other half of possible title holders, the Zekes downed Pi Kaps 55-47. J. Hartnott scored 14 for Zeke's while John Coschka dropped in 21 for the losers.

Grapplers To Meet Northwest Missouri

The Indian wrestlers will meet a tough Northwest Missouri team on the OU floor tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 p.m.

The grapplers out to even their 4-5 record are hoping for the return of Jim Fuxa who was hurt in the 21-8 loss to South Dakota State College last week.

After a satisfying 18-13 win over Augustana on their own floor, the matmen handed Morningside College a 27-3 walloping last Tuesday.

Grappler Jim Fuxa Also Library Science Major

by Jim Mone

In the University of Omaha fieldhouse he is a wrestler, and in the library he is dubbed "librarian" by his friends.

Jim Fuxa, the 5' 7", 137 pound wrestler, is a three letter winner to date at OU, who "didn't even know what wrestling was when he was a high school freshman".

Jim, 21, earned three letters in wrestling at Omaha South high school. After graduation, he entered the University of Nebraska and there won two matches in the AAU Tournaments held in Lincoln.

After a year at NU Jim entered OU and has one more year to look forward to on the OU mat. He sports a two year record of 13 wins, one loss, and two draws, the loss incurred last Saturday to South Dakota State College.

YMCA Work

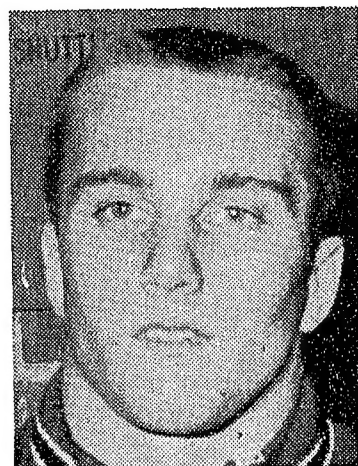

Jim is pursuing double majors in physical education and library science. He works part time at the Central Branch YMCA, supervising the gym, and in the OU library. "Many of the guys think its funny that I'm a library science major and when they see me they yell, 'hey, librarian!'" Jim brushes it off casually, however.

Weight Lifter

To further his wrestling ability, Jim is an ardent weight lifter. Last year he participated in the AAU Weight Lifting Tournament at the close of the wrestling season. "Weight training helps in my coordination, strength and endurance," Jim added.

Crowd participation has not been very good at wrestling matches. This has become a standard "joke" among the wrestlers. When they come onto the floor they see how fed they can count over previous matches.

"One thing that hurts our sport is professional 'rassling'. He feels that people are fooled by the 'pro rasslers' and do not see the real showmanship in college wrestling. 'College wrestling along with other sports is down,' he added . . .

Jim plans to teach, preferably library science, and continue study toward a masters degree. As far as coaching is concerned, he would consider college level coaching.

Jim is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, social chairman of the O Club and a member of PE Majors and Minors Club.
